

Les Memoires 1961

The Yearbook of the Students of Northeastern Junior-Senior High School Manchester, Pennsylvania Volume 3

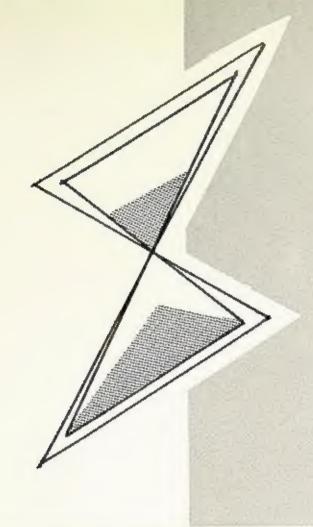

"The noiseless foot of time . . .

Steals swiftly by, and, ere we dream of manhood, age is nigh!

- JUVENAL

Because of the swiftness with which these last years have fled, we have chosen to salute Time in the presentation of this yearbook. Between these covers we have attempted to create a bridge which will, as each year passes, span the ever-widening gap between past and present. In the publication of this edition of Les Memoires, we hope to have captured the year, 1961, so that its memories may be preserved forever.

We Honor ...

We wish to express our deep appreciation to those who have contributed the most in the molding of our lives. With their guidance behind us and our ambitions before us, we are prepared to take that important step forward into the world of tomorrow. Saying thanks in a small but sincere way, we the class of 1961, respectfully dedicate this edition of Les Memoires to our parents for wisdom and understanding granted us through the years.

Advanced math feaches us the theorems of parallel lines

The aim of any mathematics program is to develop clear, logical trinking. Ours at Northeastern is divided into three specific phases; academic, commercial, and general, with some degree of specialization in each department. The academic department contains the advanced courses of mathematics for college-bound students.

The work for all groups is geared to the mostery of fundamentals and to interpreting the puzzling intricacies of numbers. The goal of the department is to treat mathematics as a living, growing subject, which calls for new and better teaching techniques, many of which have already become part of our mathematics program

Social Studies links the ancient world with modern times

Each phase of the language arts department attempts to assure the student of an increasing command and understanding of the language

The English course provides a chance for the student to develop his individual talents for imaginative thinking, speaking, and writing

To vary foreign language classes, customs and cultures of the countries also are studied through their music, literature, and lives.

To study the post in order to prepare for the future is the aim of the social studies department. Their program attempts to inspire a respect for America . . . her heritage, her culture, and her people and to teach the value of good citizenship in a democratic system of government.

To attain these ends the department, in addition to class work, sponsors field trips to governmental institutions

World Of Tomorrow

One phase of home economics teaches the art of baking.

Home economics is a program that is designed to give each girl an apportunity to learn the basic skills of homemaking. This course does not consist of just sewing and cooking. The scope and sequence chart which is now being followed, coordinates all aspects of homemaking into a six-year program

The girls are encouraged to display their handlwork at the York Fair and the State Farm Show. The department also sponsors paking contests

We express our creativeness and talents through art and music.

Expressions of Creativity

Developing creative expression is a similar goal of our music and art departments. Art and music enable the student to realize his possibilities as an individual.

The art department experiments with drawing, painting, ceramics, sculpture, and various other art media. Many of our students' works have received ribbons of merit at the York Fair

The music department's program this year has been expanded and great effort has been made on its improvements. Charuses were arranged to accommodate every grade. Opportunity was opened for interested students to participate in the Southern District Charus and our band became part of the assembly program

As the recessiona is played and the class files down the asles, apomas in hand, each member is filed with emotions. "Northeastern

As a matter of fact, Northeastern was closed four days during this winter due to driving winds and snow storms. The photographs on these pages were taken the morning of February 4, after a 26-hour blizzard which left our school area under a 12-inch banket of snow. This new blizzard brought the winter's total snowfall to 55 inches, assuring all students of abundant exercise — shoveling snow.

Drifts of snow, resembling sand dures, surround Northeastern.

The knee-length skirt . . . the college cut

Along with the outstanding events of the year, 1961, we will also remember the crazier-than-ever fads.

The world of fashion shocked the population with kneelength skirts. The racoon staged its comeback on coat collars, and just no one was in style without the "Jackie Kennedy" look.

Even the boys, scarning the word fashion, came out with their goal coats, tab collars, and college cuts.

March brought the annual rush to the "Trop" with the luscious subs, steaks, pizzas, and milkshakes to plague all the calorie watchers.

Hitting the party scene were such notable comedians as Shelley Berman and Bob Newhart with the immortal "Oh, really?" and "Nutty George."

Distinguished Honor Roll

Northeastern was proud to have sixteen of its students meet the requirements of the Distinguished Hanor Roll for the first semester of the 1960-1961 school term.

In order to warrant this Distinguished Honor Roll status, students must have had a semester average minimum of all A's and two 8's, a commendable record.

We wish to recognize these students and congratulate them on their excellent scholastic achievement

November 29, 1960, final day of the Cherry Pie contest bake-offs at Northeastern, was an eventful day for Carolyn Whisler. Although the competition was keen, she emerged as Northeastern's Cherry Pie Champion.

Sponsored as part of the 16th Annual Pennsylvania Cherry Pie Contest, the contest was open to those students in the school above fourteen years of age.

We extend to Carolyn sincere congratulations.

Selection of the class ring has always been one of the major highlights of a student's high school days. Each year, runior class members eagerly anticipate that day in ate October when they face a glittering array of rings. After much deliberation and subsequent change of mind, the final choice is made. From that moment on all thoughts turn to the wonderful day when the rings will be delivered.

Admiring "oh!"s and "ah!"s herald the arrival of the class ring, a signpost pointing the way to the long-awaited senior year.

An Exchange in Schools and Ideas

Exchange of ideas in education and culture — this is the purpose of the now two-year-old program sponsored by the International Paper Company

This year's exchanges occurred during the last week of January and the first week of February. Eleven Hadley-Luzerne students visited Northeastern and twelve of our own students made the trip at the same time.

Some of the entertainment provided for the guests included: a visit to the capital, the trip to Olmstead Air Force Base, tour of the International Paper Company plant in York Haven, and a special tea at the home of Mrs. John Sherrill

Among the activities our students attended while there were the international bobsled championship at Lake Placid, a tour of the capital and introduction to Governor Nelson Rockefeller, and visit to the ski slope at Whiteface

Both students and their respective schools, we fee sure, have profited from this memorable experience

Stage Crew

This group's activity is chiefly concerned with the building of stage props and operating the stage facilities for school functions in the auditorium.

They also operate the lighting system and provide necessary special effects for school theatrical productions. We thank them for the splendid job done with the senior and junior plays and assembly programs.

Scholastic requirements are a 3.0 or a Blaverage.

The annual induction ceremony takes place short y after the third marking period. The major project undertaken by this year's society was providing scholarships for deserving seniors. "Say it with music" — our chorus has always expressed themselves beautifully through their music

Throughout this year, they have presented many programs, featuring light hearted numbers such as "Cranberry Corners" to the sacred "Create in Me" Their music has served as an effective aid to worship in the Community Prayer Week, the special Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies, and the Baccalaureate and Commencement programs. With the band, and two other choral groups, they participated in the annual Spring Concert

Our school has well been represented by them as they entertained various organizations of the county.

Hersh at practice.

Mank saves with pains.

For the second consecutive year, our Northeastern booters have brought the York County Championship trophy to our school. Under the watchful eye of Coach Schaeffer, the team practiced and played with much enthusiasm, and above all, a high regard for sportsmanship. For the first time in many seasons, we had an undefeated and united record in league competition, being defeated in District 3 playoffs by Pequea Valley, 3 to 0

Bobeats Fight Through Season

Northeastern for two -

The Boocat quintet, under the coaching of Phil Kessler, started the season by posting a 4 wins, 1 loss record in exhibit on play. During league action, however, the competition became more keen. Although lacking in height, the team had an abundance of speed and spirit which brought them to the end of the season with a 10 win, 11 loss record.

For the past three years Fun Bowl in Manchester has been the scene of many embroiled intramural bowling matches for both senior and junior high students, this year has been no exception. The junior high matches were bowled after school hours while the senior high contests were raised on Saturday mornings. The bowlers held a banquet as a climax to their successful season.

Bobcat Nine Take Northern Division Crown in '60

During the 1960 season, our Bobcat nine, under the watchful eye of Coach Kessler, played their way through a 9 wn, 2 loss season to recapture the Northern Division trophy for Northeastern. The playoff for the county championship was held at Memorial Stadium in York between Northeastern's nimble nine, and Red Lion, our traditional county foe and Southern Division champions.

After a long, well-fought, battle, Red Lion emerged the victor scoring only two runs to our none.

At the present time, Mr. Kessler is in the process of building the team for the fast approaching '61 season. The coach and the team anticipate another championship year as they have lost only three of their former starting players.

No Longer Neophytes

Seeming qu'te the veterans of junior high life, are the members of eighth grade. They have lost much of the wide eyed wonder which was typical of them as entering seventh grade only a short year ago. Now with elementary school more securely locked in their past, they have become a functioning organ of high school life. The eighth graders have already embarked on planning for their future activities by sponsoring a roller skating party at Playland.

A group of our eighth graders pose for the Les Memoires' comeramon.

Enthusiastic Newcomers

Our seventh graders may have been small in stature but their eagerness to learn and their willingness to participate have made them giants among the students at Northeastern

One of their many accomplishments was developed in their English classes where they prepared a history of York County canals. They presented this study in cooperation with the PTA to an auditorium filled with proud parents and teachers
